

Photo Giulio Lucarini

RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM

The social life of material and immaterial heritage in the Mediterranean: from the longue durée to the here and now

14-15 November 2014

McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research,
University of Cambridge & Darwin College

This symposium proposes to reflect on the heritage in and of the Mediterranean. In particular it will focus on those moments and sites, when its multiple heritages have become elements of division or union, of conflict or common ground. The aim will be to consider the constant revision of heritage narratives in the region, reflecting shifting social and cultural contexts.

With kind support from The British Academy, The Institut Français-Royaume-Uni, Trinity College, the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research, and Darwin College.

PROGRAMME

Friday, 14 November – McDonald Institute

Welcome lunch – 12:00-13:00

Introduction – 13:00

Session 1 – 13:15-14:00

Cyprian Broodbank, McDonald Institute
David Abulafia, History, Cambridge

Discussion – 14:00-14:30

Session 2 – 14:30-15:15

Alexandre Baralis, Louvre Museum
Simon Stoddart, McDonald Institute, Cambridge

Session 3 – 15:15 – 16:00

Amira K Bennison, Middle Eastern Studies, Cambridge
Nabila Oulebsi, Université de Poitiers

Discussion – 16:00-16:30

Dinner (for speakers and guests) – 19:00-21:00

Saturday, 15 November – Darwin College

Session 4 – 10:00-11:00

David Jeffreys, UCL
Paul Bennett, Society for Libyan Studies
Ridha Moumni, MMSH, Université d'Aix-Marseille

Session 5 – 11:00-11:45

Graeme Barker, McDonald Institute, Cambridge
Giulio Lucarini, McDonald Institute, Cambridge
Dacia Viejo Rose, Archaeology & Anthropology, Cambridge

Discussion – 11:45-12:45

Working Lunch (for speakers and guests) – 12:45-14:00